Not illustrated. 1855 Excerpt: .in a public paper a statement from an individual who described the Russians as having a most awful horror and fear of the sea, and consequently being the poorest and worst sailors in the world. This was to prove how unfit they were to cope with our navy. As regards being bad sailors and unable to contend with the English, this may be true--I dare say it is true; but this I know, that whether they have a horror or not of the salt water, they have very little fear of fresh water; and for my part, I never saw anything to indicate a fear of the sea. If they have an inefficient navy, I think it must arise from some other cause. I think Englishmen who have lived in Russia will bear me out if I assert that the Russians have less, far less, fear...
