Frank Marshall Davis: The Fire and the Phoenix (a Critical Biography)

By Kathryn Waddell Takara

Pacific Raven Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New.

Paperback. 218 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 5.9in. x 0.6in. Frank Marshall Davis: The Fire and the Phoenix (A Critical Biography) is a compelling historical biography about Frank Marshall Davis (1907-1987), journalist, editor, poet, labor activist, and Renaissance man of the Black Chicago Renaissance. He wrote expansively about social relations of his times and the failures of democracy, recorded his observations on race relations, African American culture and community, and critiqued economic disparities in the USA and imperialism in Hawaii. Kathryn Waddell Takara writes with an uncanny ability to dissect the humanity of Frank Marshall Davis and to explore the myths and legacy that Davis left to the world, applicable to the 21st century. Waddell Takara met, visited, befriended, and interviewed Davis in Hawaii during the last 15 years of his life. She felt a special affinity for and understanding of Davis due to certain shared situations: the Jim Crow South, poetry and politics, activism, and interracial marriage and life as an African American in Hawaii. Between the pages of this critical biography, Waddell Takara reveals Daviss efforts to establish connective marginalities between the black and white worlds, both conventional and nonconventional, in the first...
