

Learning from Delhi: Dispersed Initiatives in Changing Urban Landscapes (New edition)

By Bo Tang, Shamoon Patwari

Ashgate Publishing Group. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Learning from Delhi: Dispersed Initiatives in Changing Urban Landscapes (New edition), Bo Tang, Shamoon Patwari, The inflexibility of modern urban planning, which seeks to determine the activities of urban inhabitants and standardise everyday city life, is challenged by the unstoppable organic growth of illegal settlements. In rapidly expanding cities, issues of continuity with local traditions, local conditions and local ways of working are juxtaposed with those of abrupt change due to emergency, reaction to modernity, environmental degradation, global market forces and global technological imperatives to make efforts to control by physical planning redundant as soon as they are enacted. In most third world cities there is little social welfare and almost no attempt at social housing. The urban poor must still house themselves with little or no state help to procure land or infrastructure. Not having a legal existence, 'slums' are automatically swept away to create a 'tabula rasa' prior to a complete new build for those who can afford the full cost. The notion of upgrading the existing built environment, has hardly entered the official planning vocabulary. Since 2002, both Diploma and latterly Degree students from London Metropolitan University Department...
